Seek To Tax Revenues Of Tax-Exempt Foundations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress opened a sweeping review of the tax code today, hearing a call for a 20 per cent tax on the investment income of private foundations.

Rep. Wright Patman, the Texas Democrat who has been a leading critic of tax-exempt foundations for more than eight years, told the House Ways and Means Committee in prepared testimony "I do not seek to destroy foundations, but to reform them."

Patman, however, said he does not propose taxing contributions to foundations, but rather on their investment revenue.

The committee, headed by Arkansas Democrat Wilbur D. Mills, began what is expected to be a two-year job of revamping tax laws which were last reviewed in 1954.

Patman said the use of some of the nation's estimated 3,200 foundations have made of their tax-free status "reveals the continuing devotion of some of our millionaires to greed, rather than conversion to graciousness."

However, Charles L. McClaskey, president of the National Association of Foundations, Inc., said the groups are capable of policing themselves under his association's code of ethics, and no additional legislation is necessary.

"Private foundation abuse is, as a matter of fact, not widespread as some would have you believe, because the experience of the Internal Revenue Service in auditing private foundation's returns found less than two per cent violations," he said in prepared testimony.

Increase Assets

Besides a tax on such foundation income as interest, dividends, capital gains and profit from business activities, Patman said he is offering legislation to limit any privately controlled foundation from owning more than 3 per cent of the stock of a business. He said it would also require such organizations to distribute annually for philanthropic purposes their entire net income.

Patman said 596 foundations studied by the small business subcommittee he heads increased the value of their assets from $10.2 billion to $15.1 billion between 1960 and 1966.

The $3.5-billion Ford Foundation, he said, paid $369,351 to four law firms in 1966 and 1967, including $159,644 to one, Ginsburg & Feldman of Washington.

Patman said the Ford Foundation also spent $446,262 for public relations in 1967, while the Rockefeller Foundation paid $31,546 to a public relations counsel.

Patman said Ford Foundation grants for widening voter registration in Cleveland had been credited with helping Carl B. Stokes win election as mayor.

He said its grants for experimental school decentralization in New York helped trigger a teacher strike.

Show Sirhan As Planning Murder

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With witness after witness, the prosecution is attempting to show that Sirhan Bishara Sirhan planned the murder of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy—and even practiced for it on the day before the assassination.

On today's witness schedule were two men who had told a grand jury they saw Sirhan practice rapid firing at the San Gabriel Valley Gun Club in suburban Duarte.

Kennedy was shot in a kitchen area of the Ambassador Hotel on June 5, as he left a victory celebration.

A kitchen helper, Jesus Perez, was asked Monday if he had seen Sirhan in the pantry. He said yes, a half hour before the shooting.

Probe Aquanaut's Death

Suspend Sealab Program

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A $10-million Navy program to train men for undersea living has been suspended while doctors try to learn why an aquanaut had a fatal heart seizure 610 feet down on Monday.

Sealab 3, the leaking underwater dwelling unit which Berry L. Cannon, 33, was attempting to repair when stricken, was ordered hauled up from the ocean floor near San Clemente island. A delay of weeks seemed likely for the trouble-plagued project, which called for five nine-man teams to spend 12 days each living and working at the bottom of the sea.

The other eight members of Cannon's team began a six-day period of decompression, a gradual process in which their body tissues become accustomed again to surface pressures. Like Cannon, they had been conditioned to pressures 19 times normal to withstand the weight of the ocean at the Sealab's depth.

The body of Cannon, a civilian with three children, was flown to 11th Naval District headquarters at San Diego, Calif., for an autopsy. Deputy County Coroner

W. T. Souza said preliminary tests were inconclusive.

The depth was not unusual for experimental descents and spokesmen said all divers in the program had been tested at that pressure in compression chambers without mishap.

The project, delayed since last July by equipment problems, got under way Saturday when the 57-by-12 foot steel cylinder was lowered by crane to the ocean floor.

No diver set foot in it, however.

Cannon, of Panama City, Fla., and Navy CWO Robert Barth, 38, had swum 20 feet from the diving bell to the dwelling unit. Suddenly Barth noticed Cannon was in trouble and helped him back to the bell. All four men were returned quickly to a pressure chamber on the support ship, the USS Elk River, directly overhead, but Cannon was dead when they arrived.

Code Outdated: Pueblo Officer

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — The U.S. Code of Conduct for servicemen taken prisoner doesn't "apply itself well" to modern psychological warfare, says the USS Pueblo's second in command.

"The underlying principle behind it must be maintained—that is, loyalty to our government," Lt. Edward R. Murphy Jr. told a Navy court of inquiry Monday after saying he signed a fraudulent spy confession following two days of North Korean torture and two death threats.

"But the state of the art (of war) has changed considerably... now we have a psychological warfare environment and I don't think it (the code) applies itself well in that environment."

Murphy said he made a false confession to spying—and to invading North Korean territorial waters—but not before the North Koreans gave him three bloody beatings, threatened twice to kill him and he heard what sounded like Bucher and other officers confessing.

Murphy said he was stripped to his shorts and forced to crouch and balance on the balls of his feet with a stick about one and one-half inches thick behind his knees.

The effect of the stick, he said, "is to deaden the sensation in the bottom of your legs. I lost control of my legs and started to quiver."

"They hit me in the face and chest and kicked me backwards... another kicked me forward. It was back and forth until I was on the deck, and then they kicked me until I stood up. And then it was back down on the stick again."

"I don't know how many evolutions like that I made but on at least six occasions I passed out from being kicked... one of the times I fell over I was kicked severely in the side of the head and it split my ear open. There was an area on the floor completely covered with blood from my ear and I was cut on the lip."

Progress From Talks Deadlock

PARIS (AP) — Experienced diplomats foresee a new deadlock at the Vietnam peace talks but say it may provide the first sign of progress.

The new complication in the already stalemated talks, is expected to arise between the United States and its Saigon allies over the question of negotiating South Vietnam's political future.

Saigon rejects any such negotiations as interference in South Vietnam's internal affairs. South Vietnamese Ambassador Pham Dang Lam said Monday: "For us, an international conference is not the appropriate framework for discussing internal problems."

Deadly Gas Covers Town

CRETE, Neb. (AP)—Leaking anhydrous ammonia fumes from a wrecked railroad tank car spread through a section of this, southeast Nebraska town this morning. At least six persons died from breathing the deadly fumes.

Gov. Norbert Tiemann said the State Patrol confirmed six deaths. A Department of Agriculture inspector said he found 10 dead. Many persons were overcome as they slept in their homes.

The tank car was on a siding.

The area was ordered evacuated. Burlington Railroad officials said the tank car ruptured when freight cars from a passing train jumped the tracks and smashed into it.

A funeral home spokesman said one body had been brought

Bliss To Resign As GOP Head

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced today the resignation of Ray C. Bliss as Republican national chairman, effective in mid-April.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler made public an exchange of letters in which Bliss said he would leave the party job to return to private business and Nixon said he accepted the decision with a salute "for a job extraordinarily well done."

There was no immediate indication of his successor, although the name of Murray Chotiner of California, a long-time political associate of Nixon, was mentioned here as a possible appointee to a high committee position.

The Akron, Ohio, Beacon-Journal said today Nixon will appoint Rep. Rogers Morton, R-Md., to succeed Bliss. Morton was Nixon's floor manager during the 1968 GOP National Convention.

Bliss operates an insurance concern in Akron, Ohio.

Bliss said his April retirement will "provide necessary lead in time for the new chairman to prepare for the 1969 and 1970 elections."

Power Play Is Timed To Upset Visit By Nixon

LONDON (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle's boycott of the Western European Union threw a new storm over the Continent today, less than a week before President Nixon's visit.

In the latest maneuver of De Gaulle's little cold war with Britain, France withdrew Monday from the council of the WEU, the seven-nation organization that provides the only forum in which Britain and the six nations of the Common Market can discuss cooperation. The council meets twice a month.

Some commentators regarded the confrontation between France and Britain as a deliberate buildup for the U.S. President's visit.

Show Of Strength

For France, it underlines De Gaulle's determination to lead Western Europe, to show Nixon that Western Europe cannot move without Paris, and to warn Nixon not to push for Britain's entry into the Common Market.

For Britain, it demonstrates that Britain enjoys the support of France's five Common Market allies, and it shows the conviction of Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government that Britain belongs in Europe despite De Gaulle's veto.

The crisis began building up last week when all the WEU governments except France — Britain, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg — agreed to consult each other on foreign affairs and to discuss the Middle East at a special meeting in London last Friday.

De Gaulle reportedly considered this meeting a British maneuver to get closer political links with the Continent and approach the Common Market through the back door.

Demands Resignations

France boycotted the meeting and unsuccessfully demanded the resignation of Maurice Iwens D'Eckhoutte of Belgium, secretary-general of the WEU, for allowing it to be held.

French officials said their government told the organization Monday it was halting "all activities in WEUs indefinitely" and that France would not attend a WEU council meeting scheduled in London today.

France will continue to attend WEU meetings below the council level, however, and officials said French delegates would be at the semiannual WEU parliamentary assembly in Paris next Thursday.

The WEU was organized in 1954, chiefly as a device to permit the controlled rearmament of West Germany after a pre-De Gaulle French government vetoed the European Army project. Its military functions have been largely taken over by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Newberry Marine Killed In Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five Michigan servicemen were among recent casualties of the Vietnam War the Defense Department announced Monday.

Killed in action were Army Spec. 4 Richard A. Paton, son of Mrs. Virginia Karnatz of Detroit; Army Pfc. Gerry A. Polega, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albin M. Polega of Kinde; and Marine Pfc. Roger C. Nesbit, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Nesbit of Newberry.

Changed from missing to dead as a result of nonhostile action were Army WO1 James E. Kirby, husband of Mrs. Ruth A. Kirby of Ann Arbor; and Army Sgt. Stanley D. Farro, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Farro of Warren.

Stop Oil Merger

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge has enjoined the $3.8 billion merger of the Atlantic Richfield Co. and Sinclair Oil Corp. pending a court trial of the government's contention of antitrust violation.

Judge Frederick van Pelt Bryan, in granting a Justice Department request for a preliminary injunction Monday, said, "The ultimate merits remain fully open for determination at trial."

Proxmire Sees Big Budget Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the joint House-Senate Economic Committee indicate there is strong sentiment in Congress for deep cuts—comparable to last year's $6 billion slash—in the $195.3-billion budget inherited by President Nixon from the Johnson administration.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., presiding temporarily over committee hearings, said he was "very disappointed" at Monday's testimony from members of the Council of Economic Advisers who did not foresee large savings from the current review of Johnson's last budget.

"But that doesn't mean Congress cannot make the cuts itself," Proxmire said. An questioned on whether he thought it might be possible to force a $6-billion reduction in the fiscal 1970 budget request, as was done in fiscal 1969, Proxmire replied:

"Oh, certainly. There is more sentiment in Congress for a cut this year."

Chairman Paul W. McCracken of the Council of Economic Advisers, testified that the budget must be kept in balance for anti-inflationary reasons.

It is "quite possible," McCracken said, that the 10 per cent surtax therefore must be extended beyond its June 30 expiration date.

Nixon, Pope Visit

VATICAN CITY (AP) — President Nixon will meet with Pope Paul one day after the Pope finishes a week of Lenten retreat. Nixon will fly to Rome Sunday, March 2, to meet with the Pope in the Vatican.

Ratify A-Treaty Quickly: Rogers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers urged the Senate today to ratify promptly the nuclear nonproliferation treaty to prevent "the awesome insecurity that could result from the spread of nuclear weapons."

"There is no effort of greater importance than the endeavor to prevent such an eventuality," Rogers told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in a brief statement as the first witness at hearings on the pact.

In his first appearance on Capitol Hill as secretary of state, Rogers made clear the Nixon administration agrees with its predecessor that the pact should be ratified swiftly, that it will not "adversely affect our existing defense alliances," and that it does not create any new security commitment by the United States.

Hearing On Monday

Calling it a "carefully drafted and carefully balanced" international agreement, Rogers quoted President Nixon's Feb. 5 statement which stressed that ratification now "would advance this administration's policy of negotiation rather than confrontation with the USSR."

Although the administration has called for prompt ratification, the Senate Armed Services Committee announced plans Monday for hearings on military aspects of the pact.

Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., indicated the hearings would start after the Foreign Relations Committee winds up its own inquiry. The additional hearings could further delay the pact's ratification.

During the campaign last fall Nixon opposed immediate Senate action on the treaty because of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Address Allies

Obviously anticipating questions by senators on why the President changed his mind, Rogers referred to Nixon's Feb. 6 news conference in which the President said: "I did not gloss over the fact that we still very strongly disapprove of what the Soviet Union had done in Czechoslovakia and what it still is doing."

"But on balance," Nixon added, "I considered that this was the time to move forward on the treaty."

The invasion of Czechoslovakia, however, was not the sole cause of concern to the President, the secretary explained. Nixon, he said, "also wanted an opportunity to address the concerns of our allies, with whom we expect to have further discussions next week."

Chinese Reds Hold Voyagers

HONG KONG (AP) — Fifteen yachtsmen, including six Americans, are reported being held at a small port near the Portuguese colony of Macao following their capture Sunday by the Communist Chinese.

Macao sources with Communist contacts said the yachtsmen were being detained at China's Gau Chau port just north of Macao "pending an investigation by authorities." Vessels passing the port reported seeing the masts of three sailing yachts in the port.

British officials in Hong Kong said they have had no reply from Peking in their effort to free the pleasure sailors, who were captured on a holiday cruise from Hong Kong to Macao 40 miles to the west.

Nixon Realigns War On Poverty

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is preparing to pare away roughly half of the Office of Economic Opportunity in a major realignment of the war on poverty.

The Job Corps, Head Start and slum health centers are to be shifted to other federal agencies, informed sources said today.

But one of the most controversial of the antipoverty efforts, the community action programs, will be left in OEO, they said. So will VISTA, the domestic peace corps.

The White House is expected to make the formal announcement today or Wednesday.

Head Start To HEW
Head Start, the widely praised preschool program for disadvantaged children, is OEO's largest single program with a $318 million budget. It is slated to go to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Job Corps, the second largest at $280 million, is to be transferred to the Labor Department.

HEW will also get the Comprehensive Health Services program of slum medical clinics.

The war on poverty, launched by President Johnson four years ago, has come under increasing criticism in the past year amid accusations of scandal and spotty performance.

Congress began the breakup last fall by voting to move Upward Bound, a college program for school dropouts, to HEW's

Office of Education this summer. At the same time, Congress set a March 1 deadline for a White House recommendation on what to do with Job Corps and Head Start.

Half Of Budget
Slicing away Head Start, Job Corps, Upward Bound and the slum health centers will strip away nearly $700 million of the OEO budget—about half of the present total.

The antipoverty agency has a $1.9 billion budget, but $300 million of that already is funneled to the Labor Department, which runs the Neighborhood Youth Corps.

OEO will be left with about $500 million to run the community action programs, a catch-all collection of local antipoverty efforts ranging from urban slums to Appalachia to Indian reservations to the deep South.

The other major programs remaining in OEO along with VISTA and community action include special Indian and migrant programs, legal services for the poor, and research efforts.

The Nixon recommendations were shaped by a special task force headed by HEW Secretary Robert H. Finch. One major question, whether Head Start will wind up in the Office of Education or the Children's Bureau under HEW, is still undecided.

Also unsettled is the question of who will run OEO under the Nixon administration.

Need Soil Borings: Water Intake, Elevated Tank On Project List

Soil Testing Services of Green Bay, Wis., will be employed by the City of Escanaba to conduct soil test borings necessary to plans for the construction of a new water intake and an elevated water tank for the city, the Council decided in meeting Monday night.

The firm will be in Escanaba soon to begin test borings of the yacht basin, where additional piers for berthing watercraft are to be constructed with the financial cooperation of the Water Resources Commission.

Mayor Cecil B. Chase conducted the session in the County Building. Not present was Councilman Edward J. Cox, who is ill and a patient in St. Francis Hospital. The Council expressed the wish for his speedy recovery.

The Council authorized the payment of $3,000 to the Soil Testing Service for the work in testing for the water intake and the foundation for the elevated water storage tank in the city's industrial park.

Part Of Project
The borings on the lake bottom will be done before the ice breaks up this spring. The present intake is 60 years old, said City Manager George Harvey, and its condition will be more fully determined when skin divers can go down to inspect it.

The new water intake and the elevated storage are part of the plans for the development of the city's water supply and treatment facilities. The city is anticipating that the costs will be financed in part by state and federal funds.

In other business the Council approved an amended lease recommended by Harvey with the Harnischfeger Corp. for the occupancy of city-owned buildings on Stephenson Ave. and 3rd Ave. N. The new lease has been approved by the Harnischfeger Corp. and includes an increase of $400 a month in payment to the city, the payment of taxes by the firm, and the assuming of responsibility for maintenance by Harnischfeger.

Review Charter
"Harnischfeger has been doing its share" in the past in its arrangements for use of the city buildings, Harvey advised the Council.

The Council asked the city manager to review the City Charter section by section and to report to them on what amendments, if any, are deemed necessary. The examination of the charter with the thought of updating it was the result of the manager's report that state statute and the charter are now incompatible on the composition of the board of review.

Bark River Culvert & Equipment Co. was awarded the contract to supply the city with a motor grader at a cost of $33,960. The manager told the Council that the company was the only one whose bid met the specifications.

Ordinance Hearing
Approval was given the transfer, subject to police approval, of an SDM liquor license from Warren Fisher Jr. to Warren Fisher Sr. The licensed establishment is at 512 S. 14th St.

A new subdivision ordinance was given first reading by the Council and the date of March 20 was set for public hearing and adoption. The proposed ordinance, recommended by the Planning Commission, was been under study for the past year and the Council commended the Commission for the excellence of its work.

A resolution commemorating the 50th anniversary of the Order of DeMolay was adopted by the Council. The organization, which is sponsored locally by Lodge 195 Free & Accepted Masons, was lauded for its program and fine example "set by these young leaders in contributing to the welfare and character of other young men in this community, thus aiding in the development and leadership of tomorrow."

Founders' Day Program:

Jamrich Cites Goals Of Purpose, Meaning

Recognition of three persons who have made outstanding contributions of service to the youth of the community, and an address by Dr. James X. Jamrich, president, Northern Michigan University, were highlights of the Founders' Day program sponsored by the Escanaba Area PTA Monday evening.

Mrs. Robert Ryde, PTA Council vice president, presided in the absence of President Mrs. John Anthony, and the awards for service to youth were made by Mrs. Leo Niquette, regional vice president, 19th District, PTA.

Award recipients are Anona Anderson, retired school teacher; Dr. Vernon K. Johnson, former member of the Area School Board; and Paul Vardigan, special education teacher.

Open Society
Dr. Jamrich was introduced by Robert Haack, and the invocation and benediction were by the Rev. Roger L. Patrow. Dr. Jamrich spoke on the general topic of "what the universities are and should be doing for man and his condition in the world, and how we have attempted to provide for these objectives." He said in part:

"One begins with the observation, perhaps not shared by all, that we have, as individuals, become increasingly emancipated and thus no longer under the usual guides of tradition and customary authority. It is my conviction that most, or at least an increasing number of the people in this country, have arrived at or near an open and free society. To somebody, then, falls the important task of providing for the pursuit of the good life in this country."

"What has perhaps not been so clear is the fact that having achieved membership in such an open society, we may not really be prepared to live it. Where many of our citizens have been accustomed to traditional guideposts, to the orderliness of the church for example, we have heard the increasing concern that we, as members of an open society, are adrift without purpose and meaning," Jamrich said.

Develop Purpose
"I submit that this is not so much a matter of lacking a purpose and a meaning as it is the ability of most of us to develop purpose and meaning. In other words, we have perhaps failed to develop the ability to cope with these new variables of modern life."

"Why do we now turn to the universities as the source for such accomplishment? Why not the church; why not the government? Perhaps the most obvious reason is that what man does he does because he believes it to be based on truth; his basis for truth is his perception of his environment; his perception of his environment is based on his knowledge of man and his environment. And the arena in which these matters are best assessed is the college and the university," he continued.

"It is because of this recognition that the university is the place for the development of these very vital elements of knowledge and perception that we must be extremely careful that the role of the university is clearly identified and that the opportunity for the community of scholars known as the university will exist to pursue the study of man and his world. The preservation of the concept of academic freedom, therefore, becomes crucial."

Education's Goals

"At the same time that we recognize the central role of the university in the future of our society, it must be emphasized that the possibility of the university becoming a captive to undesirable elements with contrary goals poses as much or more danger than our inability to capitalize on what we have."

"Is it not really that we need to look at the more general approach, looking at the sociological, economic, technological, and other variables which affect human behavior and development so that we are adaptable to new and emerging problem areas as we deal with management and product development in the society around us," Jamrich added.

"No what does this all mean for the goals for an institution of higher education? There are certain basic essentials which have to be provided, namely, (1) certain basic skills of communication; certain quantitative skills; knowledge of science and human behavior. (2) The analytical approach to problems and issues. (3) The ability to understand new developments, discern the need for adaptation; and the ability to undertake work within a newly developing enterprise or idea."

NMU's Future

"Finally, there is the need for a general-liberal education content in order that each individual have at least a modest exposure to the wide array of human activity and endeavor over the ages.

"Finally, I should like to add a brief word or two about Northern Michigan University and its role in this evolving state plan of higher education. What is now Northern Michigan University, as you know, was established as a Normal School in 1899 and has gradually moved to where it is today with some of its most rapid development and expansion taking place during the last decade," Jamrich said.

"It is our hope that the University will continue to grow at a rather gradual pace during the next eight or ten years and will then again move to a rapid expansion in enrollments. In the meantime, we are placing a great deal of emphasis on the consolidation of the growth which has taken place in the last eight or ten years and the strengthening of certain programs both at the undergraduate and the graduate level."

Musical Program

"As of the moment, we are not so much exerting a pressure for new buildings in great numbers, but we are primarily turning our attention to the strengthening and improvement of instructional facilities, equipment, and faculty."

Entertainment at the Founders' Day program, which recognizes the founding of the PTA movement, included music by groups of students.

A selected group of fifth grade students of the Lemmer, Franklin and Webster Schools sang, directed by Mrs. M. H. Garrard; another group of sixth graders from schools of the Area District presented songs, directed by Mrs. Beverly Moraco; and a Senior High School string quartet played directed by Robert Chase.

Taxing The Rich

Congress' House Ways and Means Committee starts hearings today on proposal for the first comprehensive revision of the federal tax structure in 15 years.

The reform is needed. It will be difficult to accomplish. The Nixon Administration has endorsed change. It aims to do two things:

1. Make the tax more equitable (fair).
2. Increase tax income.

The proposed reform isn't going to go to the roots of taxation and concern itself with the philosophy underlying taxes. It's going, at best, to simply fiddle with the method by which we now levy income and estate taxes.

Even this lesser approach could be very helpful and, indeed, it might be the better approach at this time because a deep look into the reason for taxes might get lost in debate and achieve nothing.

President Nixon gave tax reform his blessing after release of the Johnson Treasury Department tax study report. President Johnson's Treasury Secretary Joseph W. Barr said that unless something is done about federal taxes there is danger of a "middle class taxpayers' revolt."

This is the majority of Americans, whose main source of income is wages and salaries which are fully taxable with only limited exemption. This is the group that pays most of our federal taxes and it is irate that some rich persons are paying very little taxes or no taxes at all.

It is being proposed that the rich with large income — even though it is not taxable under our present tax system because it is tax exempt — pay something anyway under a revised formula of taxation.

This would presumably please everyone except the rich who are affected by the change. There are not many such persons; Barr reported that in 1967 there were 155 "extreme cases" of citizens with adjusted gross incomes of over $200,000 a year — 21 had over a million — who paid no federal income tax.

There seems to be a belief that if the rich could be hooked with the tax, too, that it would be possible to ease the tax burden on the other taxpayers. This isn't so, although Congress has created a rather general impression that it is so. Tax changes that would spare millions of low income families from $30 to $80 a year in federal taxes would offset levies of as much as several hundred thousand dollars each on the tax bills of some 40,000 wealthy persons who now escape taxation completely or in part.

The Treasury's proposed tax reform package would bring in only $3 billion extra with no provisions for reduction of taxes for the poor and half of this would be from elimination of deductions for charitable contributions — a thing that Congress is not at all likely to accept. In other words the changes to make all the rich pay some taxes would bring in only about $1 billion.

This shouldn't halt reform; it will serve equity even if it doesn't help greatly with income.

Snacks For Health

Nibbling all day may keep the heart doctor away.

As reported in the British medical journal, Lancet, 1,133 men aged 60 to 64 were examined for symptoms of coronary heart disease at the Institute of Human Nutrition in Prague. Diets also established the nature of their meal patterns.

It was found that more than 30 per cent of the men who took three or fewer meals a day had coronary disease against less than 20 per cent of those eating a daily diet of five or more meals. Those eating four meals a day were in between with an incidence of 24 per cent.

The Czech doctors did not offer an explanation for these differences, but studies in the United States have shown that cholesterol levels are higher in animals that are given large meals over long intervals than in those allowed to nibble at will. A high cholesterol level is known to be a factor in heart disease risk.

Fantastic 11 Years

Unremembered by just about everybody, America's first satellite, Explorer I, passed its 11th anniversary in space the other day. It may be its last.

The 80-inch, 30.8-pound cylinder has completed 60,000 revolutions of the earth since it was launched Jan. 31, 1958. Its orbit is becoming more circular with the low point dipping closer to earth.

Originally, Explorer I was expected to have a lifetime of only about five years. Now, trajectory experts at the NASA-Marshall Space Flight Center, where the Jupiter-C rocket that launched the satellite was developed, say it is likely to reenter the earth's atmosphere and burn up late this year.

From Explorer I to Apollo 8, What a fantastic journey in 11 short years.

'Being Of Sound Heart'

If you want to give your heart away — or your eyes or kidneys or other vital organ — see a lawyer.

According to R. C. Page, senior vice president of the Wachovia Bank & Trust Co. of Winston-Salem, N. C., and a leading national authority on wills and trusts, legal authorization is as vital as the vital organ itself. Since transplants must be made immediately after death, any delay could make the organ no longer usable.

The bank has distributed to North Carolina attorneys a suggested legal format for dealing with anatomical gifts.

In some states at the present time, the law hasn't caught up with medical science and the wishes of next of kin can override those of a deceased.

Mead Strengthens Its Position

Tennessee Production To Be Shifted To Escanaba

KINGSPORT, Tenn.—V. K. Shannon, manager of the Kingsport Division of Mead Corp., says that start-up of a huge new paper machine in the Escanaba Paper Co. Division of Mead late this year will help the Kingsport Division in the highly competitive publishing papers market.

"A 6 1/2 per cent growth rate per year through 1975 is predicted for the U.S. pulp and paper industry," says Shannon. C. H. Cline & Co.'s "Marketing Guide to the Paper and Pulp Industry" sees 1975 sales reaching $34.5 billion, up 55 per cent from $22.3 billion in 1968.

"In its annual paper industry capacity survey, the American Paper Institute indicates the overall increase in production capacity for the next two years will be more moderate, with annual increases of 2.75 per cent compared with 6.15 per cent for 1967 and 1968.

"If these predictions prove valid, 1968 should be recorded a year of reasonably full operation for the industry, the Mead Corp. and our mill in Kingsport."

"A new paper machine, similar in many respects to our Kingsport No. 5, is scheduled for start-up at our Escanaba mill in late 1969. This will benefit our operations in Kingsport as well as strengthen our entire Mead Papers Division. Certain paper grades will be shifted from our mill to Escanaba and certain other grades will be shifted from other Mead mills to Kingsport—result: better customer service, better operating efficiencies."

"While the order picture for our papers looks good, we see at the same time a year of rising costs which will make the battle for adequate profit margins a difficult challenge. Our new No. 2 Mill continues to prove its worth in meeting the challenge of inflated costs and the grade shifts mentioned above will offer additional help, although they will have little effect on our operation until 1970.

"Uncertainties can upset any forecast and they are with us today as always. Most experts feel that it is a bit early for our economy to feel the impact of the new surtax on corporate and individual incomes. Designed to help arrest inflation, its results remain to be seen. A higher interest rate recently imposed on industrial borrowing is an added brake on the economy."

"All-in-all I am optimistic about customer orders in 1969 for our Kingsport mill and believe we should have fairly full operation on most, if not all, our machines."

Alexis Johnson Is Plus On Nixon Side

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — U. Alexis Johnson's appointment as undersecretary of state for political affairs marks the fifth time in U. S. history that an active career diplomat has held so high a post.

This is a man of unusual character, ability and experience.

This reporter first ran across Johnson in 1936 when he was a language student in Japan. In 32 years covering the State Department in Washington and abroad, this writer has never met a finer career public official.

You could disagree with Johnson's conclusions at times. You could never disagree with his honesty or ever believe that he acted from anything but the highest motivation.

It is easy in hindsight to question some of his recommendations. Considering the information available at the time, this man acted logically and with surprising insight.

He is no doctrinaire extremist. He knows that in foreign affairs there are no perfect solutions. There are often only the least undesirable of a variety of undesirable answers.

Johnson is no dove and no hawk. He looks to long-run goals, rather than short-term objectives. If the long-term aims demand accepting short-term losses, he will accept that logic.

He is a man of no pretense. When he doesn't know the answer, he does not pretend that he does.

When he believes in a course of action, he pursues it to the best of his ability. But he does not believe those who disagree are thereby frauds or fools.

Johnson has spent many years in the thick of dealing with Communist crises and in meeting with Communist negotiators.

He was deputy assistant secretary of state for the Far East during the Korean war and truce negotiations and deputy undersecretary of state for political affairs during the negotiations for a three-part government in Laos.

In 1964 and 1965 he was deputy ambassador in South Vietnam and was ambassador to Czechoslovakia in the stormy 1953-58 period. He attended the Geneva conference on Vietnam and Korea in 1954 and was coordinator of the Korea sessions. He spent much of 1955-57 negotiating with the Chinese Communists in Geneva and Warsaw on the return of U. S. prisoners and other major U. S.-Peking problems.

As a result, Johnson is under no illusions about the difficulties and traps in negotiating with the Communists. He does not despair about the practicability of such talks.

He has not forgotten the lessons of Korea, Laos or Czechoslovakia. But he believes there are workable diplomatic paths to pursue inasmuch as the Communist states and the United States live on the same globe.

Win At Bridge

By JACOBY & SON

One of our favorite features in the Bulletin of the American Contract Bridge League is Edwin Kantar's article entitled, "Rate Your Own Match Point Game." Most of his hands are too tough for a bridge column but once in awhile he has one that should interest our readers. (Incidentally, Kantar's hands are usually ones he has played and, as a member of this year's American International Team, you can be pretty sure that Eddie is one of the world's best dummy players.)

South's three-club bid was preparatory to raising hearts but when North took control and contracted for six diamonds South was delighted to play the hand there. Dummy's king of spades won the first trick. A low diamond lost to East's ace and a spade was led back.

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♥	Pass	1 ♦
Pass	2 ♥	Pass	2 ♦
Pass	4 N.T.	Pass	5 ♦
Pass	6 ♦	Pass	Pass
Opening lead—♠ Q

This hand illustrates the theme of not taking a discard until you have to do so. Eddie didn't know whether he should discard a heart or a club so he just ruffed and played his jack of diamonds.

Then he cashed dummy's ace and king of hearts. When the queen dropped he did cash dummy's queen of trumps and discarded his jack of clubs on the ace of spades.

If the queen of hearts had not dropped, South would have discarded his jack of hearts on the ace of spades and ruffed a heart. If hearts broke he would have entered dummy with the queen of trumps and discarded his jack of clubs on the last heart. If hearts failed to break, he would have still been able to try the club finesse.

In other words, the combination play was going to work unless one defender held four hearts to the queen and the club finesse was wrong.

CARD Sense

Q—The bidding has been:
West North East South
Pass 1♥ Pass 2♥
Pass 3♣ Pass 4♥
Pass 5♦ Pass ?

You, South, hold:
AK65♥K764♦32♠A98

What do you do now?

A—Bid five spades. You limited your hand by your two-heart bid some time back and limited again by your jump to four hearts. Your partner has gone past game and, for all you know, he may be interested in seven. You can afford to bid five spades to show that ace.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You bid five spades and your partner bids six diamonds. What do you do now?

Ann Landers

Gal Worries About Boyfriend's Rash

Dear Ann Landers: Is it possible that my boyfriend is allergic to me? Lately when we are together he breaks out in a rash and starts to itch like crazy. Believe me, this can ruin a romantic moment.

At first I thought it might be my wool sweater, but the same thing happened when I wore silk and cotton dresses. One day, as an experiment, I took almost everything off and he itched worse than ever. Does this mean we can't get married? Please check with your consultants and get some word back to me immediately. If you say to go to a doctor he has promised that he will go. Thank you for any help you can give to us. — WORRIED WENDY

Dear Wendy: Your boyfriend might be allergic to something you are wearing other than clothing, such as makeup, hair spray or perfume. He should go at once to an allergist who will tell him what to bring in for testing.

If the tests reveal no allergies and the itching persists, he should consider the possibility that the rash is caused by an emotional problem. He might be "itching" to get married, or he may be afraid of marriage and "itching" to stay single. In any case, be careful with those experiments. But, tercup, or you might wind up with an additional problem.

Dear Ann Landers: Your reply to the widow who translated a former friend's sympathy note as, "Get lost," could only have been written by a woman such as you—one who is happily and safely married.

You said an interesting and alert widow not only hangs on to her old friends but makes new ones. You are partly right. She'll make new friends all right. If she isn't careful she will find herself surrounded by droves of widows, divorcees and maiden ladies—all just as lonely and isolated from married people as she is. After awhile she'll resign herself to the truth—it is better to go to the theatre or a movie with another lonely woman than to sit home in a bathrobe.

I hope the widow who wrote many widows did I include in my social life when my husband was alive?" It's a good question for married women to ask themselves, too. God alone knows whose husband will be next.—WASH., D. C.

Dear D. C.: Your letter is sure to prick the conscience of some and jog the memory of others. Please read the next letter. It could be your laugh for the day.

Dear Ann: Don't close the discussion on widows without adding this one last thought. As a widow, I am accustomed to being left out of things by old "friends." But I get furious when wives whisk their husbands away from me at cocktail parties and civic functions as if I were a scheming hussy with evil designs.

Most of the old goats have hearing aids, emphysema, and are loaded with liver spots. Who'd want them anyway?

There are more bad marriages around than good ones, and nobody knows this better than Ann Landers. My marriage was not a very good one but I kept my mouth shut and never let on to anyone. Of course I am lonely, but I am also reasonably content and far from miserable. The last thing I want is to get married again. So tell those smug women to stop worrying. They are safe.—DUSK

Dear Dusk: I don't need to tell them, Honey, YOU did. And I thank you.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

Federal Mediator Turns Teacher

P&H's Unionists, Foremen In School

The very difficult business of communication in labor-management relations is being learned here by a class of 60 men who are stewards of Local 632, United Auto Workers at the Harnischfeger Corp., plants in Escanaba and the company's foremen in those plants.

These men, about equally divided between foremen and stewards, are giving their own time to attend the meetings being conducted by Michael Noonan, Green Bay, Wis., commissioner of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. Some of the meetings are held at odd hours — like 7 a. m. — to accommodate men at shift changes at the Harnischfeger plants.

Noonan's Idea
The idea for the training sessions was Noonan's. He thought of it when he was serving in the effort to settle the last Harnischfeger strike. Not much can be done during a strike about changing the basic bargaining stance of both sides in a labor-management controversy, the main effort goes into immediate action to settle the strike, and usually in a testy atmosphere.

Noonan's effort is to improve the communications between company and union so that they approach the end of a contract and a new bargaining period with more understanding of each other's position. Otherwise, every contract renewal threatens a strike as a part of the bargaining process, with a strike's huge losses to company, union and community.

Often, too, a contract forced by strike attrition and the need to get back to work creates the seeds of the next strike by enforcing compromise that is intolerable to one side or the other. Even when agreement is reached it may be the cause of unhappiness because it is interpreted differently by the two sides.

Not Unique
Noonan explained that his work with the foremen and the stewards on labor peace at the grass roots of industry isn't a new or unusual thing for the Mediation Service, that it undertakes such efforts regularly as a public service in the cause of industrial tranquility.

Noonan praised the men from both sides who are attending his training course. They are, he said, making a personal contribution to success of one of the Upper Peninsula's largest industries and to the quality and reputation of their community. "It shows their interest in trying to solve human problems at the operational level by voluntary methods," said Noonan.

They are participating in 7 hours of instruction and discussion in four hour-and-a-half sessions at the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce Building. The third meeting was held last night and there's one to go.

Meet Jointly
The early meetings were held separately for foremen and stewards, but with some make-up work to do Noonan suggested that either side would be welcome at last night's session and it was attended by both foremen and stewards. The subject was: Discipline; how and when to administer it.

"Is it a steward's responsibility to stop men from gumming up the work?" asked Noonan. "And it seemed to surprise some of the foremen that the stewards' reaction was that they do, and that it then becomes a question of how they do it?"

The sessions' subjects are:
1. Face to face communications in general, how do you communicate; choice of words, tone, etc.

2. Communications in terms of problems. "We take the position that the employee is the more responsible here, but neither is the foreman objective enough."

Not Unique
3. Communications at the stewards-foremen level; the grievance handling level.

4. A film on the effects of bargaining. This last session will be a joint session of both groups.

Noonan said he found nothing unique about the Harnischfeger-UAW problems here; that sometimes difficulties originate on one side and sometimes on the other. "It boils down to a question of attitudes," he said.

"Harnischfeger runs incentive (pay) shops and such companies more precisely measure the work content of a job. (Harnischfeger's nearest competitor, Northwest Engineering Co. at Green Bay, manufacturing cranes too and is an incentive shop.) Harnischfeger has introduced more precise scientific work measurement and is eliminating some of the fat cats and paying more equitably.

Cause Of Strikes
"Racism is a cause of some strikes elsewhere, but not here. The industrial Midwest is a low strike zone, but not by any phenomenally low margin. Our

Briefly Told

The Fraternal Order of Eagles will meet at 8 p.m. today in the clubrooms.

There will be no public high school religion until further notice.

The Carnegie Public Library will be closed all day Saturday in observance of Washington's Birthday.

Both public and private schools will release students at 2:30 Wednesday so that teachers may attend teacher in-service programs.

A Well-Child Clinic will be held at the Hermansville School Wednesday from 1 to 3 p.m. with Dr. Theodore Bash in attendance.

The Wait Watchers TOPS Club will meet at the VFW Hall at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. Members should bring their pictures. Fruit and menus will be collected.

Cindy Creten of St. Joseph School won an emblem for scoring five points in Saturday's grade school playday at Royce Park. Her name was omitted from the listed emblem winners published in the Daily Press Monday.

Green Bay area of mediation, from Green Bay to the Soo and Ashland and including all the Upper Peninsula, is a low strike area within the low strike zone.

"Most strikes have economic reasons and they reveal a breakdown of communications in which one side doesn't see the other side's problems. Some strikes injure unions little because they find so much work elsewhere that they can't even get enough strikers to man their picket lines. Some strikes are caused by company failures to take care of grievances, real or imagined.

"I have put more blame on management in strikes because it is the other party and inability to lead in communications for what is best for both sides reveals that it has allowed a 'yours and mine' attitude when the interests of both are mutual in many, many ways.

Wanting Understanding
"What we need is wanting to understand each other. Understanding may be too far away, but we can want to understand.

"These workers are less suspicious and less sophisticated than those in the East, where I come from. This sometimes makes their goals unrealistic. This is not a Harnischfeger problem, but one of this whole area. Stopping of production for the hunting season would never be heard of in New York or Philadelphia. So they don't come up to the city workers. I don't know which is better.

"One problem about which Harnischfeger can do nothing is that it is a shotgun wedding and their workers feel frustrated because they have no options for other similarly paid employment here. This wouldn't be true in a big city; they could get as much pay from some other employer.

"And image lingers and hurts sometimes. A six year old grievance will be renewed and linked to something current with the complaint 'It happens all the time!'"

Study Plan To Unite Doctors, Osteopaths

LANSING (AP) — A proposal to bring medical doctors and osteopaths under the same licensing board and tighten that board's authority over both was outlined Monday by officials of the Michigan State Medical Society (MSMS).

The proposal, which MSMS spokesmen said would soon be introduced in the legislature, would provide for one state medical board, composed of eight doctors of medicine and two doctors of osteopathy. It would replace the current two boards, one operating in each field.

The proposal also would give the medical board "some teeth in its protection of the public," MSMS officials said.

They pointed to the recent case of Dr. Ronald Clark, convicted of manslaughter in the death of an employee. Testimony at the Clark trial revealed that an autopsy showed death had been caused by an overdose of sodium pentathol.

Better Protection

Under current law, the doctors said, the licensing board could not revoke Clark's license until he had been convicted. Under the proposed law, the board could temporarily revoke a license and "provide better protection for the public."

"The proposed new law asks for more authority for the licensing board to deal with alleged felons who have been found guilty in a first court while they exhaust lengthy appeals," the MSMS said.

"It also provides improved appeal features to protect the rights of the physicians to go along with the disciplinary provisions."

Observers expected the licensing board consolidation proposal to run into opposition from the state's osteopaths, who have balked at the idea of losing their separate identity.

Different Tests

"This is not a proposal to swallow up the osteopaths," declared Dr. John J. Courty of Port Huron, chairman of the MSMS committees on osteopathy and on county medical societies. "MDS and DO's both have at

Resolve Nursing Homes Dispute

LANSING (AP) — The dispute between Michigan nursing homes and the state appears to have been temporarily resolved, Gov. William Milliken announced Monday.

The Michigan Nursing Homes Association announced several weeks ago that it would refuse to accept any more public assistance patients unless daily rates were increased.

However, Milliken said, an agreement has been worked out where rates for certain patients would be boosted April 1. The rates probably will be renegotiated before July 1 when the new fiscal year starts, sources said.

The net effect of the compromise announced today appears to be that the state will boost rates in exchange for nursing home cost data, which the homes earlier refused to give, sources added.

Nursing homes had asked for daily rates for Medicaid patients to be boosted to $15 for skilled patients and $13 for basic patients. The rate currently is $14 for skilled and $12 for basic patients.

Under the agreement, Milliken said, rates for basic patients in skilled homes would be boosted from $12 to $14 daily. Rates for a limited number of patients such as paraplegics or those with severe heart trouble would be boosted to $16 daily, sources explained.

U-M Alumni Secretary Dies

ANN ARBOR (AP) — T. Hawley Tapping, former national president of Sigma Delta Chi and retired general secretary of the University of Michigan Alumni Association, died Monday. He was 79.

Stricken at his home, Tapping was dead on arrival at University Hospital.

Tapping was alumni secretary for 35 years, retiring in 1958. He also was a former state editor of the Grand Rapids Press and had worked on numerous newspapers in Michigan and Illinois.

Sigma Delta Chi is a professional journalistic society.

Elem. Principals Oppose Nonpublic School Aid

LANSING (AP) — State aid to nonpublic schools could open a Pandora's Box that "could shake this nation to its very roots," says the Michigan Association of Elementary School Principals.

In a position paper released Monday, the MAESP said legislative approval of a plan to give state funds to private and parochial schools could set a legal precedent "which would permit the destruction of the public school system."

"Although there has been a steady erosion of America's classic separation of church and state, there still exists in the minds of men and the statutes of their law the concept that the United States was founded as a secular nation and must continue to exist on a nonsectarian basis," the association said.

Separation
"It is the position of this association that the separation of church and state is an essential characteristic of this nation and must not be threatened directly or indirectly by any legislation seeking to blur this distinction."

Parents who send their children to nonpublic schools are faced with an increasing public tax burden, the MAESP said.

Certainly one can sympathize with the plight of these citizens," it said. "But nevertheless the choice is theirs. There is nothing which prevents them from decreasing this financial burden to themselves except their own free will to choose among alternatives."

Proponents of state aid to nonpublic schools, the association said, point to the possibility of "a flood of children loosed upon an already overtaxed public school system should the parochial schools close their doors."

Bigger Classes
"Better many children in a classroom than the prospect of limited public funds being diluted among conflicting educational systems that would inevitably change the democratic nature of this nation of ours."

The history of the public school, the association continued, is "littered with the shards left by the affluent scrambling to perpetuate themselves through their young."

"Parents have attempted to keep their children isolated socially from 'less desirable' children," the association said. "Parents have sometimes tried to circumvent federal laws by removing their children from desegregated schools."

"Certainly not all private education pursues such questionable goals, but how does one make the distinction between good and bad private schools?" the association asked.

Tradition Important
Any law which is based upon wide public support for narrow, specialized ends must be defeated for the continuance of the traditions that have attracted millions of enslaved souls to the shores of this land," it said.

Meanwhile, a member of the State Board of Education told both opponents and proponents of state aid to nonpublic schools he would be happy to discuss his own proposed system for financing education.

Dr. Leroy Augenstein had suggested a method by which the state would issue vouchers to each school-age child. Those vouchers would be redeemable at any school — including private and parochial — meeting specified criteria.

Validity Of Plan
Citizens to Advance Public Education (CAPE) had criticized the plan and its chairman, Mrs. Harriet Phillips, questioned its constitutionality.

"Clearly, there must be some mixup about the constitutional validity of my proposal," Augenstein told Mrs. Phillips in a telegram, adding he had checked the proposal with attorneys.

Augenstein told Dr. John Vandenberg, chairman of Citizens for Educational Freedom — which has backed the nonpublic school aid idea — that he was "pleased" with CEF support for the voucher plan and hoped to discuss CEF objections to the proposal.

Not all sea water is blue. The Gulf Stream off Japan is so dark it has been named Kuroshio (Black Stream).

Stocks Retreat In Second Day

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued its retreat Tuesday morning, and by 11:30 a.m. the Dow Jones industrial average had fallen 10.13 points to 927.59.

Market observers said the downturn was a carry-over from Monday when the Dow industrial gave up more than 14 points in light trading. This came after weeks of cautious upturn.

"When you get a drop like Monday's, people who can still manage to take a profit try to take it," said one analyst.

Trading was expected to exceed Monday's light volume of 11.67 million shares, but there was no panic over the selling.

"A drop in the market like this is just like a storm—it has to run its course," was one view.

Salem Lenten Services To Begin Wednesday

Midweek Lenten services will be held every Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m. at Salem Lutheran Church, 12th St. and 4th Ave. S., announces Pastor J. J. Wendland.

The general theme of the Lenten sermons this year will be: "The suffering Messiah." The texts are taken from the Gospel according to St. Matthew.

The themes for each week will be as follows: "Bows to God's Will," "Surrenders Willingly," "Confessed Frankly," "Rejected For a Criminal," "His Sacred Head Wounded," "Chief of Transgressors."

Organist for the Lenten services will be Mrs. Kate Ottensman and the mixed choir under the direction of Erwin Orban will sing at a number of the services.

"O Bleeding Head and Wounded" by J. S. Bach will be the anthem this Ash Wednesday. The Lord's Supper will also be administered at the Ash Wednesday service. Registration of intention to commune is to be made to the pastor before Wednesday evening.

All having no church home, as well as newcomers to the city and area are invited to attend these Lenten services, as well as the Sunday services.

'Gold Cup' Fans Urged To Watch For Directions

Snowmobile fans planning to drive to Gladstone for the International Gold Cup classic Saturday and Sunday were urged Monday to watch for traffic directors for direction to parking places.

The parking lot of the sponsoring Gladstone Yacht Club will be limited to contestants and officials.

City streets in the area of the Yacht Club have been widened to accommodate parking on both sides, however, and a spectator parking lot has been plowed near the Gladstone Beach House.

news media and race officials. A torchlight parade is scheduled, weather and conditions permitting, through Gladstone Friday night followed by a public dance at the Yacht Club.

To Crown Queen

The Gold Cup Queen will be crowned at a noon luncheon Saturday at the James T. Jones School by Jack Drees, national radio sportscaster. Drees is expected to arrive in Gladstone Saturday morning and will be grand marshal of Saturday night's parade.

The Gold Cup will be presented to the top overall point winner after close of Sunday's races.

A total of $7,500 in prize money will be offered in the two days of competition and many of the top drivers in the Upper Midwest are expected to enter. The program is sanctioned by the Michigan Snowmobile Association.

Liuzzo Girl Gets Probation

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Mary Eva Liuzzo, daughter of slain Detroit civil rights worker Viola Liuzzo, received a three-year probation sentence in federal court Monday on a charge of narcotics violation.

"My nightmare's over," she said afterwards.

Miss Liuzzo, 21, whose mother was killed on a darkened highway, March 25, 1965, arrived here Saturday night. She had spent the past three months under court-ordered observation at Alderson, W. Va., federal reformatory for women.

She was arrested at International Airport here July 24 and pleaded guilty in October to a charge of importing marijuana from Mexico without paying a federal tax on it.

Chief U.S. Dist. Judge Adrian Spears had ordered the reformatory stay before sentencing her. Over the weekend, Miss Liuzzo said she felt the judge did her a favor by doing so.

"I didn't feel that way at first," she told a reporter. "My sympathy was all for the inmates. But I saw people trying to help girls, and they just didn't want help. They had such negative attitudes and were so unresponsive that I realized that putting them in prison is about the only thing you can do with them."

She was nervous and her hands shook as she waited for sentencing Monday. The attractive, brown-eyed brunette told newsmen she hoped her "nightmare might be coming to an end."

After facing Judge Spears and hearing the probation sentence, she sighed with relief. "My nightmare's over."

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Sly and Mrs. D. J. Sly have returned from Livonia where they spent several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sly.

Sgt. I. C. Duane Popour and family of Milwaukee spent the weekend at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Popour and Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gobert and family of Gladstone visited Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sheedlo.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Juneau Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Orin Pappineau of Rapid River and Mr. and Mrs. Orville Pelletier of St. Jacques.

Mrs. William Rogers spent Tuesday in Manistique visiting at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Roddy.

Mrs. Peter LeClair is spending some time at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Waeghe of Green Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. John Schwartz entertained 20 relatives at a dinner party Saturday evening at their home on the Isabella Road.

Expect Big Crowd

Largest crowd of the two-day racing program is expected Sunday when stock and modified machines move onto the half-mile oval track which is now under construction north of the GYC clubhouse.

Some 6,000 spectators gathered around the course in last year's races.

Race officials, who met Monday night at the Yacht Club to iron out final details for the derby, indicated that many entries already have been received. The biggest crush of registrations is expected Friday and Saturday.

Cross country racing begins at noon Saturday on a course which begins near the Yacht Club, leads across Little Bay de Noc to woods roads on the Stonington Peninsula and then brings drivers back to the finish line near the club.

Oval racing is scheduled to get underway at 11 a.m. Sunday.

Weekend activities begin Friday with a cocktail party from 4 to 6 p.m. for members of the

Liquor Licenses In Air At Soo

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP)—The Sault Ste. Marie commission Monday night voted down three separate resolutions to renew liquor licenses for the town's two dozen bars.

The commissioners actually were about to give automatic renewal to the licenses, but suddenly commissioner William James remembered that one tavern, Pat's Northlake, has not settled a discrimination charge brought by the Michigan Civil Rights Commission.

James proposed that all licenses be renewed except Pat's. That resolution, lost, 4-3. Next James suggested renewing all licenses but Pat's and giving renewal automatic approval when the commission clears it. That one lost, too, 4-3.

Finally someone proposed a resolution renewing all licenses and that one lost—also 4-3.

Mayor John Harrington gave thirsty residents new hope though, saying he thought the state licensing bureau would renew all the licenses automatically.

Traffic Light Placed On Car

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — The New Jersey assembly has asked Congress to adopt safety procedures which would, in a sense, equip motor vehicles with their own traffic light systems.

The House approved Monday and sent to the Senate a resolution proposed by the South Jersey Automobile Club to make the running lights on the rear of motor vehicles green.

When the driver removes his foot from the acceleration pedal, the lights would turn to amber and then to red when the brake is applied, under the proposal.

The automobile club contends that it is too difficult to distinguish between the red running lights on the rear of cars and trucks and the brighter red light that is flashed when the brakes are applied.

'A Happening' Is Teen Theme

Teens arriving at the St. Francis Parish Center Sunday night for "A Happening" found the gym decorated with posters, newspapers, a huge foil tressis, and a gigantic pyramid of colored aluminum containers. Blinking, colored and rotating psychedelic lights, scooter lights and candles provided illumination for dancing to the music of records. The teens found a snack bar which featured such exotic concoctions as "Bleeding Mary" (cranberry juice and ginger-ale), "the kitchen sink" (combination of all types of pop), "a happening" (coke and root beer with cherries), "hot lips" (apple cider with cinnamon sticks) and "psychedelic spuds" (chips). The "Happening" was sponsored by the Teen Club of St. Francis and was non-denominational.

License Bureau Open Saturday

LANSING (AP)—License plate sales offices that normally close on Saturdays will remain open this Saturday to ease a last-minute buying surge, says Secretary of State James Hare. Deadline for new plates is Feb. 28. "We hope no one will be inconvenienced by having to wait in long lines to purchase automobile plates" at the Department of State branch offices, Hare said. But, he added, "it seems that procrastination is becoming the thief of many buyers' time." Hare reminded those who have not yet purchased plates that they will need three items when they go to the offices—proof of insurance, the prepared application mailed earlier this year by the department and last year's automobile registration. "Enough money is necessary to cover the new license fee of 55 cents per hundredweight," Hare added.

Investigate Entry To Gulliver Store

State Police are investigating a breaking and entering at Jim and Jean's Grocery in Gulliver which occurred around 5 a.m. Sunday. Entry was made by breaking a front door window, troopers said. Missing from the store are sixteen 6-packs of beer, six bottles of wine, 30 cartons of cigarettes and approximately $200 in change. An assortment of magazines, valued at $75, was also taken. Robert Derousha, Deer St., reported his car was dented by an unknown motorist on Sunday when he left it parked on the shoulder of County Road 442 in Thompson Township after he ran out of gas.

Two Story Hours Set For Saturday

There will be two Story Hours this Saturday, Feb. 22 with the Manistique School and Public Library sponsoring one at the Library and the Community School sponsoring one at the Lincoln School. Both Story Hours will feature the movie "Dick Whittington and His Cat" plus patriotic stories in observance of George Washington's birthday. The programs will begin at 10:30 a.m. and all children three years and older are invited to attend.

Delegates came from the Republic Sportsman Club, Negaunee Rod & Gun Club, Tahquamenon Sportsmen's Club of Newberry, Schoolcraft County Sportsmen's Club, Iron Mountain - Kingsford Sportsmen's Club, Munising-Alger Sportsmen's Club, Sagola Township Sportsmen's Club, Chassell Sportsmen's Club, Ottawa Sportsmen's Club of Pelkie, Norway Restoration Assn., Michigan Trappers Assn. of L'Anse and Adventure Mountain Sportsmen's Club of Mass. A highlight of the meeting was the presentation of plaques to the NMSA's seven past presidents including Merwin White, Manistique; William Asselin, Norway; Howard Brown, Newberry, and Jack Madigan, Munising. Willard Musolf, Oscoda, president of the Michigan Deer Hunters Assn., which has opposed the Department of Natural Resources program of managing the deer herd, attended the meeting and urged the NMSA to continue its fight against shooting does and fawns. "You're going to have trouble getting anything in the paper that's contrary to the DNR policy," Musolf said. Juchemich disputed the statement. Delegates took the following action on the other proposals submitted by member clubs: Shorten the ruffed grouse season to two weeks, from Oct. 1 to 15. Defeated by a 24-13 vote. Shorten the archery deer season to 36 days, from Oct. 1 to Nov. 5. Passed. Allow anglers to legally keep coho salmon that are accidentally snagged during the fall season. Passed. (The justification given was that the salmon die after spawning and so would be wasted if not taken by fishermen.) Enact legislation "to allow every able-bodied male citizen to own a big game rifle and at least 20 rounds of ammunition." Withdrawn. # New York Nets Win Alcindor

ST. PAUL — MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The New York Nets, by a coin flip, won the rights to UCLA All-American giant Lew Alcindor and selected him in a secret American Basketball Association draft, highly informed sources disclosed today.

ABA Commissioner George Mikan was not expected back in Minneapolis until later today and was unavailable for comment.

Alcindor's selection by the cellar team in the ABA's Eastern Division draws the battle lines for an expected dollar war between the two-year-old ABA and the National Basketball Association, which reportedly conducted a secret draft three weeks ago in Chicago, the sources said.

The Nets flipped a coin with Houston, the last-place team in the Western Division, during the ABA's secret draft by conference telephone calls last Saturday, the sources said.

The 11-team ABA, in its second season, conducted the first two rounds of its 1969 draft. Names of other players taken were not known.

Phoenix or Milwaukee of the NBA presumably have the draft rights to the 7-foot-1½ Alcindor, who has led UCLA to two straight NCAA championships and started them to a third.

Red Sox Sluggers Plans To Report

By The Associated Press
Chalk one up for the owners in the continuing threat of a baseball strike, but don't count the players out yet.

Ken Harrelson, who led the American League in runs batted in last season, became the first name player to announce that he would report to training camp on time this spring.

"I'm going to play," said Harrelson, "I signed a new contract in the middle of last season and I'm going to honor it," the Red Sox' slugger added.

The Players' Association has instructed its members not to sign contracts or report to training camps until the pension dispute is settled and developments Monday indicated that the final settlement could be a long way off.

The club owners rejected a Players' Association request for arbitration, and offered instead to increase their original $1 million boost in pension contributions by $200,000, lifting the total to $5.3 million.

Harrelson also had some thoughts on Detroit's ace right-hander, Denny McLain, who also has signed a contract but said he will not report until the dispute is settled.

"Denny is a good friend of mine," said Harrelson. "But I told him I thought he was wrong for not honoring his contract. I told him I thought he should live up to it."

Harrelson's declaration made him the first player of any consequence to split with the others. If more follow him, it could break the back of the strike.

The White Sox, training at Sarasota, Fla., have 24 batters on hand and announced the signing Monday of Gerry Nymman, a left-handed pitcher who was 2-1 last year. Nymman is the 10th player on the Sox' spring roster to sign.

The Baltimore Orioles and Montreal Expos expected their first players to arrive at their Miami and West Palm Beach camps today.

"I think we will have about 11 men reporting," said Jim Fanning, general manager of the National League expansion Expos.

Washington was due to open camp today but pushed the starting date back a week because the team still is officially without a manager. Ted Williams was expected to agree to a million dollar package as part owner and manager later this week.

In other baseball developments Monday, Minnesota named ex-manager Cal Ermer their Eastern supervisor of scouts and Bill Jackowski, a National League umpire for 16 seasons, retired because of an eye ailment.

Bucks, Royals Triumph Over Foes In Twinbill

BALTIMORE (AP) — Coach Gene Shue of the Baltimore Bullets made it clear he was not complaining, just observing.

But after a National Basketball Association doubleheader Monday night, the only action in the league, Shue's poignant comparison left little to the imagination.

"Flynn Robinson drove to the basket once in the first game and he shot 23 free throws," Shue said. "It's hard to understand how Earl Monroe, who lives in heavy traffic, could only shoot three."

Robinson missed only one of his foul shots and connected on 11 of 20 field goal attempts as he scored 43 points and led Milwaukee, last in the Eastern Division, to a 123-111 victory over Atlanta, the second-place team in the West.

Monroe, who attempts most of his shots after driving in close, scored 30 points as Baltimore's

Eastern Division leaders lost 117-112 to the Cincinnati Royals. Monroe sank 14 of 31 field goal tries, and was two-for-three from the foul line.

The loss reduced Baltimore's lead to 2½ games over runner-up New York.

Down 113-110 after Jerry Lucas converted a free throw following a deliberate foul, the Bullets missed three shots from the floor and another was blocked by Lucas—who hauled down 29 rebounds.

Oscar Robertson led Cincinnati with 26 points as the Royals beat the Bullets for the third time in Baltimore without a loss.

In the opener, Milwaukee blew a 14-point lead while early outscored 11-1 by Atlanta early in the final quarter.

Then the Bucks ran off a 10-0 string in the next two minutes to pull ahead 107-96.

Jim Davis topped Atlanta with 29.

Pitcher Signs White Sox Pact

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Gerald Nymman Monday became the 10th rostered pitcher to sign a Chicago White Sox contract.

The southpaw was 2-1 for the Sox last season.

Nymman reported too late to practice in Monday's drill for the assortment of 24 pitchers and catchers—mainly rookies—in camp in 52 degree weather.

Esposito Draws Suspension, Fine

MONTREAL (AP) — Phil Esposito of the Boston Bruins, the National Hockey League's leading scorer, was suspended Monday for the next two games for pushing and punching referee Bob Sloan during the Feb. 8 game against the Philadelphia Flyers.

Esposito has 92 points, top in the NHL's scoring race. That is only five points below the league record shared by Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita, both of Chicago.

The Boston center also drew a $75 automatic fine for the incident.

Tiger Penney Denny McLain won the American League Most Valuable Player Award by a unanimous vote, the first time a pitcher in either league had been selected unanimously for MVP honors.

Specialist Sees Industrial Gains For Peninsula

David O. Farrand of Escanaba, industrial development specialist for the Upper Peninsula Committee on Area Progress, said Monday that he sees continued gains ahead in industrial development for the Upper Peninsula.

Speaking to the Escanaba Lions Club at the Sherman Hotel, Farrand said more and more firms are looking to areas like the Upper Peninsula to solve some of the problems they have encountered in metropolitan situations.

One big advantage to industry locating in the Upper Peninsula is the people themselves, Farrand said.

"There is less job absenteeism in the Upper Peninsula than in the cities," Farrand said, pointing out that firms in the cities often have to hire two or three times as many employees to do the job because of high absentee rates.

Farrand, who joined UPCAP in 1964, said that he has successfully completed a total of 33 projects in the Upper Peninsula. These industries, he said, employ close to 700 people and mean $6-7 million annually to the U.P.

Industrial development, he said, isn't something that can be learned from a textbook. In fact, he continued, only one college in the United States — the University of Oklahoma — has a course in industrial development.

Instead of from textbooks, industrial development techniques have to be developed through experience. Most of the ideas for industrial development, Farrand added, come from individuals.

A man may have an idea, but needs help to implement it, Farrand said, and that's where UPCAP comes in.

Feasibility studies are instituted and if an "idea" seems to be sound, methods of financing are explored.

"UPCAP is here to provide the particular technical services desired," Farrand said. "If we don't have it, we go outside for help."

Dismiss Charge Against Brown

A charge of negligent homicide against Larry David Brown, 19, of 2707 Lake Shore Drive, was dismissed Monday by Judge Robert Wood in Luce

County District Court at Newberry.

The charge resulted from an accident at 12:04 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 17 near Newberry in which members of "The Spoken For", a rock and roll band of Escanaba, were all injured and Marion Levesque, 35, of Aurora, Ill., driver of the other car, was fatally injured. Mrs. Levesque's husband, Gilbert, 47, was also injured.

Brown, driver of the van-type vehicle used by the band, was charged with negligent homicide after an investigation in the intersection crash by State Police. The band had played at a teen dance in Newberry and was on the way to Escanaba when the mishap occurred.

Atty. Nino Green of Gladstone represented Brown.

Board Meeting Set At Garden

The Delta County Board of Supervisors will meet at 8 p.m. today in the Garden Community Building in what may be the first full-board meeting ever scheduled out of the Delta County Courthouse.

County Clerk William E. Butler said that tonight's meeting will be the first full-board session outside of the courthouse in his 16 years in office.

The meeting was scheduled at Garden, about 50 road miles from Escanaba, in implementing a new policy adopted by the board of "bringing the government to the people."

Other meetings are expected to be scheduled in the future in other areas of the county to allow residents of those areas to attend meetings without excessive travel.

With a five-member board under reorganization, supervisors said it would be easier to call a meeting in locations outside of the courthouse. Travel, they pointed out, would be much less for five members than for 27.

The agenda for tonight's meeting includes a report from the Finance Committee as well as reports on the public improvement fund and the payroll of the Delta County Road Commission. The Board also is expected to take final action on workman's compensation insurance bids, approve county officers and employes bonds and consider reinstatement of the Planning Commission corporation.

Bill To Change Holiday Dates

LANSING (AP) — The House Monday moved into position for final passage a bill to give state laborers four additional three-day holidays per year.

The bill passed by the House last year but defeated in the Senate, provides that Washington's birthday, Memorial Day, Columbus Day and Veteran's Day always fall on Monday.

Washington's birthday would be celebrated the third Monday in February, Memorial Day on the last Monday in May, Columbus Day on the second Monday in October, and Veterans Day on the fourth Monday in October.

House. All the measures were sent to committee. Among them were proposals to:

—Authorize the department of social services to establish post exchange outlets for social services recipients, exempting any transactions from state or local taxes.

—Increase retirement allowances yearly in an amount equal to the rise in the consumers price index.

—Limit salaries of boards of supervisors per year to a maximum of $10,000, with any further increases to be approved by electors at a general or special election.

Christmas, Eastern, New Year's Day and Thanksgiving would be celebrated on the traditional dates under terms of the bill sponsored by Rep. Roy Spencer, R-Attica.

The measure was one of two bills on which the House took action during its brief session. The other measure would credit veterans with time spent in military service toward retirement from state jobs.

The bill, however, was referred to the Appropriations Committee to determine its fiscal applications.

In other action, a spate of bills were introduced into the

Harmony Circle Meets Thursday

The Harmony Circle of the First United Methodist Church will meet Thursday at 2 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Donald Ness, 2101 Lake Shore Drive with Mrs. Charles Hammar, assisting hostess.

Devotions will be led by Mrs. Aubrey Berg with Mrs. Nettie Seidl in charge of the program.

Future activities include noon-time devotions at the church each Wednesday from

Leak Disrupts Bell Service

GLADSTONE — A leak in the roof of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. equipment building in Gladstone caused what amounted to loss of outgoing service to subscribers of the area for about two hours Monday afternoon.

The leak damaged equipment in the building, causing a loss of dial tone. This caused most people to believe that telephone service was out, according to Thomas Straebel of Escanaba, district manager.

Had people known, they could have dialed out without the tone, but this wasn't likely, Straebel said.

He pointed out that the telephone company instructs telephone users to wait for a dial tone before beginning to dial a number.

Straebel said the problem was corrected when the equipment was dried out and full service was restored about 4:15 p.m. First report of trouble, he said, came at 2:15.

Straebel said all subscribers with 425 or 428 numbers would have been affected by the problem.

12:30 to 12:50 p.m. The devotions are open to the general public and all are welcome.

Famed Ink Spots Coming March 14

Tickets went on sale today for The Ink Spots quartet appearance in Escanaba on Friday, March 14.

The group will come here through the cooperation of The Barber Shoppers and the Escanaba Area high school choral department. Proceeds will be used for the spring tour of the school chorus, and for the Barber Shoppers logopedics school, which assists children with speech problems.

All tickets are being sold by the school music students, with outlets throughout the county. The concert will take place in the William Oliver Memorial Auditorium in the Junior High beginning at 8 p.m.

The Ink Spots are known throughout the world, having made many tours and appearances in famous night spots, as well as dozens of hit records throughout the years. Their theme song "If I Didn't Care" has sold more than three million records. A well-rounded repertoire and family-type entertainment makes them a hit with all age groups.

With the Ink Spots on their current midwest tour is their pianist, a comedian master of ceremonies and an impersonator, all of whom have appeared on the Ed Sullivan Show.

Services Held For Mrs. Healy

Funeral services for Mrs. Helen Stack Healy, 80, of Portland, Ore., were conducted Feb. 7 at 10 a.m. at St. Mary's Cathedral in Portland. She died Feb. 4 following a long illness. Internment was in Mt. Calvary Cemetery.

Mrs. Healy was born in Escanaba and was a member of St. Mary's Cathedral and the Town Club. She was the widow of the late William A. Healy of the Doernbecher Manufacturing Co., Portland.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. John C. Patrick of Portland; three sons, William A. Jr. of Bend, John P. and Robert S. of Portland; a sister, Mrs. Charles W. Carey of Oklahoma City, Okla., and 10 grandchildren.
